

The Oxford Handbook of Economic and Social Rights

Malcolm Langford & Katharine G. Young, editors

Abstract

examines the socio-economic dimensions of human rights from philosophical, historical, social scientific, and legal perspectives. Part I presents contrasting theories on the nature and justification of such rights, drawing on moral, political and critical schools of thought, and their implications for democracy, equality, and global justice. Part II collects historical accounts of the emergence, mobilisation, and appropriation of economic and social rights, from pre-statist human rights history to the postwar international order, traversing decolonization, demands for social citizenship, and the distinct regional trajectories in Africa, Asia, the Americas, and Europe. Part III provides an account of the enmeshment of these rights in political debates and institutions, tracing shifts in economic development and international relations, competing social welfare state and neoliberal models, and processes of constitutionalization and judicialization. Part IV examines the significant developments in national and international law and the legalization of economic and social rights, including doctrines of proportionality and reasonableness and the recent social rights of indigenous peoples, children and persons with disability, and their gender dimensions. Part VI explores the effects of large-scale trends on rights protection and conceptualization, including development goals, climate change, technology, urbanization and migration. With its cross-disciplinary breadth, the Handbook maps the plural and sys

7. Social Minimums and Democracy
8. Social Constitutional Rights and Proportionality
9. Global Justice and Economic and Social Rights
10. Traditions of Equality and Economic and Social Rights
11. Sufficiency, Equality and Human Rights

PART II. POLITICAL AND LEGAL HISTORIES

12. The Long History of Economic and Social Rights
13. Social Citizenship and Economic and Social Rights
14. US Constitutionalism, Local Movements and Economic and Social Rights
15. Twentieth-Century Economic and Social Rights:
D

16. Economic and Social Rights in Latin America: A Long and Unfinished March

17. Constitutional Debates and Courts in Central and Eastern Europe

18. Economic and Social Rights in South Asia

19. TWAIL and Economic and Social Rights

PART III. POLITICS, ECONOMICS AND INSTITUTIONS

20. Structural Transformation and Economic and Social Rights

21. International Relations and Economic and Social Rights

22. Experimentalism and Economic and Social Rights

23. Behaviorally Informed Economic and Social Rights

24. Constitutionalisation of Economic and Social Rights

25. Legal Mobilisation and Economic and Social Rights

34. Queues and Rights

35. Corporate Responsibility and Economic and Social Rights

36. Remedies and Accountability for Economic and Social Rights

37. Extra-Territorial Obligations and Economic and Social Rights

38. International Mechanisms

39. Regional Mechanisms (New)

PART V SELECTED RIGHTS

40. The Right to Social Security

41. The Right to Health: Reclaiming Imperatives of Democratic Justification

43. Labour Rights

44. The Right to Food

45. The Rights to Water and Sanitation

46. Housing as a Right

47. Engendering Socio-economic Rights: How Far Have We Come?

48. Paradigms of Disability Rights

49.

52. Development Goals and Economic and Social Rights

53. Climatizing Human Rights: Economic and Social Rights for the Anthropocene

54. Technologies and Social Rights

55. Economic and Social Rights and the City

56. Displacement and Social and Economic Rights
